Profile

Brody is co-chair of the firm's municipalities practice. For more than a decade, he has represented governmental entities on matters involving municipal issues, land use, environmental regulation, eminent domain and real property taxation.

Brody has served as the Town Attorney for the Town of Niles since 2010. In connection with his representation of Niles, he has: successfully defended the constitutionality of the Niles Town Code at trial in the New York State Supreme Court (Cayuga County); guided the Town through a revaluation of real property; defended the Town in real property taxation litigation; drafted laws; assisted with the creation of new districts; dealt with personnel issues; and a variety of other tasks. Brody is also the Town Attorney for the towns of Skaneateles and Annsville and the Village Attorney for the villages of Evans Mills, West Carthage and Cleveland.

In addition to serving as a Town Attorney, Brody has also served as special counsel to many other governmental entities, including the New York State Thruway Authority, the New York State Canal Corporation, the New York Department of Transportation, the cities of Cortland and Syracuse, the towns of Cornwall, Harrison, Seneca Falls, Tyre and Watson, the villages of Seneca Falls and Skaneateles and numerous school districts. As special counsel, Brody has advised municipalities on land use matters, eminent domain, environmental review and litigation, and defended challenges to the valuation of real property for taxation purposes.

Examples of recent projects follow:

- Retained by the Village of Skaneateles to enforce the Village Code against those illegally using residential property for short-term rentals. Also, advised the Board of Trustees regarding proposed amendments to the zoning law and procedural issues related to the Zoning Board of Appeals interpretation of the law.
- Represented the New York State Thruway Authority and Canal Corporation in connection with the development of the Syracuse Inner Harbor, a 34-acre site previously used as a state Barge Canal terminal. When complete, the redevelopment is expected to include a 150-room hotel, 120,000 square feet of commercial space, 200,000 square feet of retail specialty shops and 210 apartments.
- Served as moderator for the New York State Department of Transportation in connection with public hearings related to the environmental review process for
