Profile

As Chief Operating Officer, Bryan manages all administrative departments for the firm, applying his experience in business, finance and technology administration to help lead the firm to achieve its goals of efficiency and profitability. Throughout Bryan's career in leadership positions he has cultivated proficiency in a variety of areas, including:

- Executive management
- Strategic planning
- New market and capital acquisition viability analysis
- Financial management
- Operations
- Information technology
- Human resources
- Marketing and business development

Bryan works with the firm's executive management to lead strategic initiatives and seize opportunities to implement new programs throughout its information technology, accounting, human resources, information services, marketing and office services departments.

Prior to joining Bond, Bryan was chief operating officer for the Buffalo-based accounting firm of Freed Maxick and senior vice president for The Buffalo News. Bryan is also a CPA and worked at several accounting firms in Buffalo.
