Profile

Curt is well versed in the regulatory landscape affecting the cybersecurity practices of businesses operating in New York. He has counseled clients on issues of breach response and notification and helped clients avoid liability and pursue claims involving cybersecurity breaches.

Curt counsels clients through the often high-stress incident responses and investigations to determine the scope of potential liability and required reporting. Curt regularly writes and presents on compliance with the New York SHIELD Act and has advised clients on compliance with New York Department of Financial Services regulations.
