Profile

Delaney focuses her practice on assisting for-profit entities and nonprofit organizations to meet their business goals and charitable and philanthropic missions.

Delaney drafts organizational documents for clients related to entity formation and governance, reviews contracts and agreements, and prepares documents relating to mergers and acquisitions.

Specific to the nonprofit sector, Delaney has experience drafting bylaws, conflict of interest, whistleblower and investment policies. She advises clients on board governance matters and questions of NYPMIFA (New York Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act) compliance, and also works with clients to obtain and maintain recognition of tax-exempt status. Delaney assists in client representation before the New York State Charities Bureau and New York State Attorney General's office, with respect to cy pres court filings and entity dissolutions. With a related practice in trusts and estates, she is able to further counsel nonprofit clients in matters related to charitable gift agreements.
