Profile

Paige assists in the representation of employers in complex labor and employment litigation matters, including union organization and related matters, the resolution of unfair labor practice charges and the facilitation of collective bargaining agreements. Paige also advises higher education institutions on issues surrounding Title IX policies and investigations, policy handbooks, grievances, executive contract and compensation and severance agreements.

Prior to joining Bond, Paige's experience included an externship with the University of Notre Dame Athletic Department where she updated its name, image and likeness (NIL) policies and worked on Title IX compliance through benchmarking and metric analyses. She also was an intern with the New York State Attorney General's office.
