Profile

As a Fellow in the prestigious American College of Trial Lawyers, Tom has nearly 40 years of experience litigating tort and commercial litigation cases, including product liability, personal injury, property damage, premises liability, Labor Law 240, motor vehicle accidents, toxic tort, construction, business, and trust and estate litigation. He routinely represents corporations, small businesses, construction companies, individuals, insurance companies, third-party administrators, public entities and school districts.

Tom has litigated in state and federal courts and is one of the few attorneys in New York who has litigated a matter in every county in the state, including:

- Seven-week jury trial on behalf of subcontractor against general contractor in a bridge rehabilitation construction claim. Obtained a verdict in excess of $1.2 million.
- Five-week non-jury trial on behalf of two beneficiaries of a trust administered by a local bank trustee. Obtained a verdict in excess of $10 million.
- Two-week jury trial on behalf of elevator manufacturer which was sued for negligent maintenance. Obtained a defense verdict.
- Two-week jury trial on behalf of manufacturer sued for wrongful death. Obtained a defense verdict.
- Miscellaneous jury trials in personal injury and property damages cases based on negligence.

Mediation/Arbitration Services

In addition to litigating cases, Tom acts as a mediator and/or arbitrator for all types of litigation matters, but focuses on personal injury, product liability and construction cases.

As a mediator, Tom facilitates the discussion between two parties, helping them decide on the best solution, short of litigation, that meets their needs and goals. Mediation is confidential and voluntary and is best handled with an experienced mediator. Tom brings decades of experience and has established a reputation as a fair and knowledgeable mediator. He is willing to mediate/arbitrate cases in any county in New York State.

MEDIATION AND ARBITRATION SERVICES

Mediation and arbitration can offer an alternative to the time and expense of taking a case to trial. Mediation is unique in that the parties maintain control over the conversations and any decisions that are made. Mediators play a neutral role in the confidential proceedings, facilitating conversation between the parties to reach a mutually beneficial settlement.

The arbitration process is similar to litigation, but a neutral, unbiased third-party acts as the judge in a private setting rather than a courtroom. Each party presents its arguments and the arbitrator's responsibility is to render a decision on the issues. An arbitrator is given more flexibility than a trial judge in how the proceedings will go and how much weight to give evidence.
