

Agribusiness

Overview

The agribusiness, food and beverage industries have always played key roles in New York's economy, and are critical to its future. At the same time, the industries face new risks from an increasingly global business environment and a regulatory regime that changes and evolves at a dramatic pace.

Bond, Schoeneck & King PLLC has one of the most experienced full-service agribusiness, food and beverage practices in New York State. We counsel all participants in the "food chain," including producers, suppliers, cooperatives, food processors, wholesale distributors, retailers and restaurants. We have a rich history of serving clients in these industries, with longstanding relationships going back as far as a century. Through this history, we've gained a unique perspective on the agribusiness, food and beverage industries that makes us keenly aware of the ever-changing environment in which we have guided our clients as they have adapted and thrived.

As a trusted advisor, we have a multilayered and practical approach to helping you develop effective, lasting solutions that will help you succeed. We have the expertise to help you meet the challenges and opportunities that you face – at the same time, we recognize that your needs are unique, and we adapt our approach to arrive at practical solutions that give you the best value for your dollar.

We are your neighbors. As such, we have a profound understanding and appreciation of the values, sentiments and perspectives within the agribusiness community and related industries. We recognize and respect the other relationships that you, as our client, have with bankers, insurance brokers, financial consultants, accountants and other professionals. We work as part of your team, offering specialized counsel as conditions warrant. Whatever the situation, we deliver straightforward and personal service.
