

Litigation

Overview

Bond's deep bench of litigation attorneys prepares each case for successful resolution whether tried to verdict before a judge or jury, won on motion, arbitrated or mediated.

Our lawyers handle a wide range of matters for Fortune 100 companies, individuals and small businesses serving diverse industries. The breadth of the team spans subject areas ranging from business and commercial disputes, intellectual property and ERISA to Title IX and product liability defense. In the class action arena, we have defended clients in collective and class action lawsuits under the FLSA, the New York Labor Law, ERISA, the ADEA and consumer protection statutes.

We strive to provide excellent legal representation and achieve a resolution that satisfies our clients' interests. We first counsel our clients on the best strategies to avoid litigation, and if litigation is inevitable, we work to win, as it is defined by the client, in an effective and cost-efficient manner.

Bond attorneys have represented clients across the country before federal and state trial and appellate courts, administrative agencies and alternative dispute bodies. Whether locally or across the nation, in court or across the negotiating table, we're here to serve you.
