DATA PROTECTION AND SECURITY

Bond's Cybersecurity and Data Privacy Practice has the depth and experience in existing and pending regulations to advise clients about compliance and best practices in this ever-changing arena.

A core group of the practice has developed comprehensive knowledge in GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) by writing compliance manuals and procedures, privacy policies, privacy notices, contract provisions and other necessary compliance tools. They are available for consultation concerning GDPR compliance. Engagements generally involve security consultations, data audits, contract preparation and review, data breach procedures, and individual rights request procedures. In addition they provide on-site training.

Bond has the tools, materials and team ready to assist you with any of the following matters and so much more:

- GDPR compliance policies and procedures
- cookie policies
- data processing agreements
- individual rights request procedures and review
- data protection officer assistance
- website privacy policies
- privacy notices
- contract review
- data audits
- training for your employees and staff

Please call any one of the data protection and security practice leaders below, or other members of the GDPR team.
